

Washington State Public Works Board's

Northwest Regional Academy

Wednesday, February 20, 2013

Set your calendars for
FEBRUARY 20, 2013!

The Public Works Board is pleased to announce its second Regional Academy.

Please join us to learn more about:

- How Federal and State budgets impact the NW Region from federal, state and local representatives and how that relates to infrastructure funding in Washington State
- Update on the Legislative Session from Stan Finkelstein, PWB Chair and retired AWC Executive Director
- Flow of funding through a county to local governments from Glenn Olson, Deputy Clark County Administrator, and Claire Hauge, Director of Financial Management for Cowlitz County

Identify current issues facing the NW Region (Whatcom, Skagit, Snohomish, Island and San Juan Counties) and develop Action Plans to resolve issues

Learn about a local infrastructure project needing assistance and join the discussion as funding agencies work together to identify next steps and provide funding scenarios.

Some comments from our first Academy attendees in SW Washington:

"I wasn't sure what to expect but it turned out to be a very interesting and valuable day"

"Most of the discussion topics were relevant to the work I do and the needs of our clients"

"...Finding out what are common issues, ways that the State or the Federal government may be able to work together especially regarding funding is key".
